

"FUTURE-TECH" COMPANY OPERATING MANUAL - 2025 Edition

1. Smart Working Policy: Future-Tech employees are entitled to 3 days of smart working per week. However, office presence is strictly mandatory on Tuesdays and Thursdays to foster team building. Failure to comply with this rule results in the loss of smart working privileges for the following month. The budget for purchasing home office equipment (monitor, chair) is €450.00 one-off, reimbursable upon presentation of a receipt made out to the company.
2. Meal Expense Reimbursement: For days spent in the office, an electronic meal voucher worth €11.50 is provided. For business travel, the reimbursement cap for dinner is €35.00 in Italy and €55.00 abroad. Alcohol is not reimbursable, with the exception of one (1) small beer or a glass of wine if dining with clients.
3. "Project Omega" Bug Reporting Procedure: All critical bugs related to the "Omega" software must NOT be reported on Jira. Instead, they must be reported by sending an encrypted email to sos-omega@futuretech.fake. The email subject line must start with the code [CRIT-99]. If the bug causes a server crash, an SMS must also be sent to the CTO via the company emergency number.
4. Production Bonus & "Casual Friday": "Casual Friday" allows for wearing jeans, but open-toed sandals and t-shirts with political logos are strictly forbidden. The annual bonus is paid in full only if the employee has completed the "Cyber Security 2025" course by October 30th. Those who complete it after this date will receive only 50% of the bonus.
